Pete Seeger: A Birthday Tribute
A Benefit Concert for WBAI* and PVC
* 99.5 FM Peace & Justice & Labor Union Community Radio

Note Different Location:

Advent Lutheran Church, 2504 Broadway at 93rd Street, NYC, 10025 (1, 2 or 3 train to 96th St.)

Pete Seeger inspired the American Folk Music Revival, performing throughout the world and advancing and supporting music and musicians in the struggle for peace, civil rights, workers rights, and the environment. He is known for his work fighting the Red Scare, and with MLK, Jr., and the Hudson River Sloop Clearwater. Tonight we will celebrate Pete's extraordinary music and life in a benefit concert for NYC's WBAI Peace, Justice, Labor and Community radio station (wbai.org), and the Peoples' Voice Cafe (peoplesvoicecafe.org).

Reverend Billy & the Stop Shopping Choir are a radical performance community based in New York City. Reverend Billy Talen delivers sermons with spark and satire. Members of the choir come from many different creative and activist backgrounds. They are grounded in the work of justice and in service to the Earth, and love to sing together. Earthalujah! revbilly.com

Judy Gorman's songs are rooted in blues, folk and jazz. Judy has performed with Pete Seeger, Harry Belafonte, Sweet Honey, Odetta, Meryl Streep, Whoopie Goldberg, Richie Havens, and more. Pete Seeger said, "Judy Gorman shoots the arrow straight to the heart; she's a wonderful singer and musician." "Real music in a sea of mediocrity."—German Public Radio. judygormanmusic.com

Mario Cancel-Bigay is a marvelous poet, singer-songwriter, and a virtuoso on the cuatro, Puerto Rico's national instrument. He is an artist and NYU professor of ethnomusicology whose songs focus on anti-colonialism, social justice and love. music.columbia.edu/content/mario-cancel-bigay

In approaching the cello, Barry Kornhauser draws on a parallel musical incarnation as a bass player & guitarist to inform his musical options, the primacy of accompaniment and playing in a rhythm section with the added bonus of a singular melodic voice like

Robin Burdulis is a multidimensional percussionist who The New York Times observed "plays her percussion instruments like a symphony."

The NYC Metro Raging Grannies promote global peace, justice and social and economic equality by raising awareness through song and humor. The Grannies are hell-raisers despite their mild mannered exteriors. Nonviolent but dangerously funny, musical, and perilously visionary! mercy@comicbookradioshow.com

Bracha Lieberman is a social worker, activist, occasional songwriter and actor, and board president of Peoples' Voice Cafe. Bracha believes that it's important to start your day off with an act of kindness, that community counts and in the power of song to bring people together! facebook.com/bracha.lieberman.1

Chris Lang is a singer/songwriter and founding member of the activist band Such As Us (reverbnation.com/maureenprussack-shames), which performs throughout the tri-state region at environmental and progressive festivals and events. They often played with Pete Seeger at various Clearwater events.

Radio for the 99% WBAI RADIO 99.5 FM Podcasts in abundance

Check out the best, longest running, ad-free, community powered radio station

Airing non-filtered, algorithm-free information (and music) from our regal radio tower

Out to millions of fellow citizens of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, and even into pockets of Pennsylvania, if the atmosphere cooperates.

Now under new management and a new landlord as of Spring 2024.

Topics covered: animal rights, art, books, children, de-tasking and re-tasking, ecology, good news, health, indigenous sovereignty, labor, law, law catching up with technology, LGBTQIA victories, microplastics, movies, nature, neuroplasticity, news, nostalgic radio, people-powered public safety, physics, public affairs, science, string theory, technology, theater, thermodynamics, womyns' rights, workers' solidarity, youth...

Boots-on-the-ground coverage: producers call into their shows from protests and broadcast eyewitness accounts of what's happening on the streets, live, on air, in real-time

Music (also known as therapy): Broadway tunes, concerts, folk, funk, house music, merengue, UK-pop, pop, protest anthems, rock, salsa, soul, spiritual soothing songs...

Listen on an actual radio that's not on your phone. That's more reliable, and hard to track.

Most screen usage allows data miners and data brokers to make endless cash from collecting then selling our 'personal data' = where, how, and when we move, what we type, what we swipe, secrets we say when we're near our phones' mics... (Tip: Faraday bags don't block sound)
It's said that our data is worth more than oil.

Listening on a radio is choosing to "Opt out" of being a 'commodity' = when you agree to 'terms and conditions' to have your info sold (keywords 'share' and 'third-party'), without you even getting a cut of the profits.

Stay informed, without the 1% and their protectors knowing what info enters your brain.

Parting gifts to help us cope, survive, thrive and unite: Abolish fear by keeping in mind that when we worry about an upcoming thing by imagining it's worst possible outcome, in the end, the outcome usually doesn't wind up being as bad as what we fear it might be.
All of us - except the 1% and their protectors - as we go about our day-to-day lives, have more in common than we don't.
